The Oklahoma Indian Child Welfare Association (OICWA) is pleased to announce the dates for its 2010 Annual Indian Child Welfare Conference. The purpose of the conference is to provide aspects of knowledge, resources, and culture that are key components in building strong Indian families and Nations. Workshops will focus on improving outcomes for Indian children in state and tribal child welfare systems and their families.

Please join OICWA for this two-day event that will feature 30 workshops and the keynote presentation "Macaroni at Midnight" by Dr. Don Bartlette, a nationally acclaimed Native American speaker, advocate, and activist.

Information regarding registration, workshop proposals, exhibiting, and sponsorships will be available soon.
